Expression of Interest JPDA PSC Model Review

Autoridade Nacional do Petróleo (ANP) is a public institution of the Timor-Leste government established under the Decree Law no. 20/2008 of the Democratic Republic of Timor-Leste. ANP is also the "Designated Authority (DA) under the Timor Sea Treaty signed between Timor-Leste and Australia. In all, ANP is responsible for regulating and administering petroleum activities in the Timor Leste Exclusive Areas and in the Joint Petroleum Development Area (JPDA) in the Timor-Sea.

The main objective of this PSC model review is for ANP Timor-Leste to have a better understanding on the applicability and relevancy of the current JPDA PSC Model to the petroleum industry in the region and global, whilst also ensuring the aspirations of the resource owners are well considered.

It has been four years since the application of the current PSC model in the JPDA. With the experience from the implementation of the PSCs so far, there have been challenges documented throughout time, and records indicated that the majority of the challenges have been predominantly related to legal matters. With this in mind, ANP believes that a thorough review of the current PSC model is vital in order to establish clarity, consistency, and to ensure our contract model is competitive comparing to other petroleum contracts in the region. The increase of petroleum activities and the complexity of the governing regulations of jurisdiction require the JPDA PSC model to be fiscally competitive and legally clear, consistent and simple. Further the provisions representing the interest of the nation states, such provisions of employment and training, tender notification, auditing, operations should be reviewed further for clarity and consistency. The administration of petroleum exploration and production in the JPDA are undertaken based on the Timor Sea Treaty signed between Timor-Leste and Australia in 2002. On that, throughout the reviews reference should also be made to the Timor Sea Treaty, the Petroleum Mining Code, and the JPDA regulations. Further, reviews should also be extended to assess petroleum contract models from other countries in order to ensure the balance between the competitiveness and attractiveness to industry whilst also encapsulating interest of the resource owners.

On the ground of the issues and concerns as stated above, and in consultation with the Joint Commission for the JPDA, the ANP seeks for a third party assistance to review the current PSC model for the JPDA. To this, ANP is seeking the assistance of a suitably qualified and experienced petroleum related consultant to:

1. Review and provide comments on the current PSC model provided together with a cross check of other relevant legislation in place for consistency and to what extent the overall articles are reasonable, understandable and applicable.
2. Conduct an analysis to the existing fiscal sharing; such as royalty rate, costs recovery rate, profit sharing and whether the current PSC is still competitive compare to others PSC in the region, to the extent that it is not, then provide comments or revisions that are considered not only acceptable and competitive but maximizing revenue also for the host country,
3. Review and comment on Annex C Accounting Procedure in order to be consistent with PSC model, particularly in relation to fiscal framework in place,
4. Review the current work programs and budget provision and its associated articles for efficiency
5. Assess and propose the inclusion of a local content provision in the PSC. This should include various component of local content deliberations such as , but not limited to, the provisions of employment and training of locals, and supplying goods and services.
6. Review the procurement process specifically on the provision of goods and services in the current PSC Model.
7. Review the audit and insurance provisions in the current PSC model.
8. Assess the need for entrenching "Ring Fencing Principle" in the PSC Model
9. Review the decommissioning and abandonment plans provisions, with assessment to the feasibility of creating a trust account for decommissioning fund.
10. Assess and propose additional provision on assignment of interest.
11. Report all findings and submit a report to the ANP together with a completely revised JPDA

The ANP envisages the above mentioned scope will require two months for completion. ANP will ensure that necessary documents will be made available during the process of review. The Consultant will be expected to maintain close contact with the Commercial Director and Acting Director of PSC and Legal Compliance. Travel to Timor Leste is may required under this service.
